

COURSE: RECRUITMENT, TRAINING AND DEVELOPMENT

LECTURE 3: RECRUITMENT PROCESS

LECTURER: DR LUCY KARIMI KIRIMA

Lecture learning outcomes:

At the end of the lecture you will be able to:

Understand and discuss recruitment process

RECRUITMENT PROCESS

Recruitment is a process of finding and attracting the potential resources for filling up the vacant positions in an organization.

It sources the candidates with the abilities and attitude, which are required for achieving the objectives of an organization.

Recruitment process is a process of identifying the jobs vacancy, analyzing the job requirements, reviewing applications, screening, shortlisting and selecting the right candidate, Recruitment process is the first step in creating a powerful resource base. The process undergoes a systematic procedure starting from sourcing the resources to arranging and conducting interviews and finally selecting the right candidates.

The process includes:

1. Recruitment Planning: This is the first step of the recruitment process, where the vacant positions are analyzed and described.

It includes job specifications and its nature, experience, qualifications and skills required for the job.

Identifying Vacancy: The first and foremost process of recruitment plan is identifying the vacancy.

This process begins with receiving the requisition for recruitments from different department of the organization to the HR Department, which contains: Number of posts to be filled, number of positions, duties and responsibilities to be performed , qualification and experience required .

When a vacancy is identified, it is the responsibility of the sourcing manager to ascertain whether the position is required or not, permanent or temporary, full-time or part-time. These parameters should be evaluated before commencing recruitment. Proper identifying, planning and evaluating leads to hiring of the right resource for the team and the organization.

Job Analysis: This is a process of identifying, analyzing, and determining the duties, responsibilities, skills, abilities, and work environment of a specific job.

Job analysis helps in understanding what tasks are important and how to perform them. Its purpose is to establish and document the job relatedness of employment procedures such as selection, training, compensation, and performance appraisal.

Job Description. This is an important document, which is descriptive in nature and contains the final statement of the job analysis.

This description is very important for a successful recruitment process. Job description provides information about the scope of job roles, responsibilities and the positioning of the job in the organization. And this data gives the employer and the organization a clear idea of what an employee must do to meet the requirement of the job responsibilities

And this data gives the employer and the organization a clear idea of what an employee must do to meet the requirement of the job responsibilities.

- Job description is generated for fulfilling the following processes:
- Classification and ranking of jobs
- Placing and orientation of new resources
- Promotions and transfers
- Describing the career path
- Future development of work standards.

A job description provides information on the following elements:

- Job Title / Job Identification / Organization Position
- Job Location
- Summary of Job
- Job Duties
- Machines, Materials and Equipment
- Process of Supervision
- Working Conditions
- Health Hazards.

Job Specification. This focuses on the specifications of the candidate, whom the HR team is going to hire.

The first step in job specification is preparing the list of all jobs in the organization and its locations.

The second step is to generate the information of each job.

This information about each job in an organization is as follows:

- Physical specifications
- Mental specifications
- Physical features
- Emotional specifications
- Behavioral specifications
- Qualification
- Experiences
- Training and development

Skills requirements

- Work responsibilities

Job Evaluation. This is a comparative process of analyzing, assessing, and determining the relative value/worth of a job in relation to the other jobs in an organization. The main objective of job evaluation is to analyze and determine which job commands how much pay.

There are several methods such as job grading, job classifications, job ranking among others which are involved in job evaluation. Job evaluation forms the basis for salary and wage negotiations.

2. Recruitment Strategy. Recruitment strategy is the second step of the recruitment process, where a strategy is prepared for hiring the resources. After completing the preparation of job descriptions and job specifications, the next step is to decide which strategy to adopt for recruiting the potential candidates for the organization.

While preparing a recruitment strategy, the HR team considers the following points:

- Make or buy employees
- Types of recruitment
- Geographical area
- Recruitment sources

The steps involved in developing a recruitment strategy include:

- Setting up a board team
- Analyzing HR strategy
- Collection of available data
- Analyzing the collected data
- Setting the recruitment strategy

3. Searching for the right candidates

Searching is the process of recruitment where the resources are sourced depending upon the requirement of the job.

After the recruitment strategy is done, the searching of candidates will be initialized

This process consists of two steps:

Source activation: Once the line manager verifies and permits the existence of the vacancy, the search for candidates starts.

Selling: Here, the organization selects the media through which the communication of vacancies reaches the prospective candidates. Searching involves attracting the job seekers to the vacancies.

The sources are broadly divided into two categories: Internal Sources and External Sources.

Internal Sources -Internal sources of recruitment refer to hiring employees within the organization through:

- Promotions
- Transfers
- Former Employees
- Internal Advertisements (Job Posting)
- Employee Referrals
- Previous Applicants

External sources of recruitment refer to hiring employees outside the organization through:

- Direct Recruitment
- Employment Exchanges
- Employment Agencies
- Advertisements
- Professional Associations
- Campus Recruitment
- Word of Mouth

4.Screening/Shortlisting

Screening starts after completion of the process of sourcing the candidates. Screening is the process of filtering the applications of the candidates for further selection process, Screening is an integral part of recruitment process that helps in removing unqualified or irrelevant candidates, which were received through sourcing.

The screening process of recruitment consists of three steps:

1.Reviewing of Resumes and Cover Letters. Reviewing is the first step of screening candidates.

In this process, the resumes of the candidates are reviewed and checked for the candidates' education, work experience, and overall background matching the requirement of the job.

While reviewing the resumes, an HR executive must keep the following points in mind, to ensure better screening of the potential candidates:

- Reason for change of job
 - Longevity with each organization
- Long gaps in employment
- Job-hopping
- Lack of career progression

2. Conducting Telephonic or Video Interview. Conducting telephonic or video interviews is the second step of screening candidates.

In this process, after the resumes are screened, the candidates are contacted through phone or video by the hiring manager

This screening process has two outcomes

- It helps in verifying the candidates, whether they are active and available.
- It also helps in giving a quick insight about the candidate's attitude, ability to answer interview questions, and communication skills.

This screening process has two outcomes:

a. Identifying the top candidates. Identifying the top candidates is the final step of screening the resumes/candidates.

In this process, the cream/top layer of resumes are shortlisted, which makes it easy for the hiring manager to take a decision.

5. Evaluation and Control

Evaluation and control is the last stage in the process of recruitment. In this process, the effectiveness and the validity of the process and methods are assessed.

Recruitment is a costly process, hence it is important that the performance of the recruitment process is thoroughly evaluated.

The costs incurred in the recruitment process are to be evaluated and controlled effectively.

The costs incurred in the recruitment process are to be evaluated and controlled effectively. These include the following:

- Salaries to the Recruiters
- Advertisements cost and other costs incurred in recruitment methods, i.e., agency fees.
- Administrative expenses and Recruitment overheads

- Overtime and Outstanding costs, while the vacancies remain unfilled
- Cost incurred in recruiting suitable candidates for the final selection process
- Time spent by the Management and the Professionals in preparing job description, job specifications, and conducting interviews.

References

Personnel and Human Resource Management. P.Subba, R,. Himalaya Publishing House,2016

A Handbook of Human Resource Management Practice. Armstrong Michael. A, London, England,2006